California Dreamin': The Music of Laurel Canyon with Mary-Mitchell Campbell and the Colorado Symphony

Description

Step into the enchanting sun-soaked hills of California's Laurel Canyon with Mary-Mitchell Campbell and vocalist Jessica Vosk. Originally conceived by Campbell and Vosk, California Dreamin' highlights the inspiring California songwriters of the 1960s and '70s, whose beautiful harmonies and enduring lyrics formed the soundtrack to the West Coast pop sound that defined an era. As the lights dim and the first notes fill the air, audiences will be transported to a time when Joni Mitchell, Neil Young, David Crosby, Linda Ronstadt, John Phillips and The Mamas & the Papas, and the Eagles' Don Henley and Glenn Frey reigned supreme, shaping the musical landscape with their timeless melodies and trailblazing songwriting. Mary-Mitchell Campbell, a masterful conductor and arranger, leads world-renowned vocalist Jessica Vosk and the Colorado Symphony through a carefully curated selection of hits that defined an era and captivated hearts across the globe.

"This project feels like revisiting a cherished chapter of my musical soul. These timeless songs from the Mamas and the Papas, Joni Mitchell, Crosby, Stills, Nash & Young, and the Eagles aren't just notes on a page; they're the heartbeat of my earliest musical memories. The beauty of Laurel Canyon's harmonic and trailblazing songwriting inspired me in ways words can't capture. With the phenomenal Jessica Vosk and the Colorado Symphony, we're not just performing; we're immersing ourselves in the very essence of why this music is eternally meaningful. Join us on this journey as we breathe new life in the soulful sounds that have shaped by artistic journey and continue to resonate with hearts across generations." - Mary-Mitchell Campbell

Immerse yourself in this exalted Requiem alongside two quintessentially French compositions in Fauré's Pavane — a stunning take on a 16th century Spanish court dance — and Debussy's Nocturnes, rounding out a performance that will leave you awe struck.

Mahler's Symphony No. 3 with Peter Oundjian

Discussing aspirations for his next symphony, Mahler wrote, "One is, so to speak, only an instrument, played on by the universe. The symphony must be like the world. It must embrace everything!" No Mahler symphony gives us a greater sense of this cosmic scale than the Third.

This great hymn to nature is massive in scale requiring a colossal orchestra and set in six movements in sequence from the earthly and mundane to the sublime and heavenly. Featuring brilliant mezzo-soprano Michelle DeYoung, Women of the Colorado Symphony Chorus, and the Colorado Children's Chorale, this is an epic performance as only Mahler and your Colorado Symphony can deliver.

EMMA

 Approximately 2 hours and 10 minutes with one 15-minute intermission

<https://www.denvercenter.org/tickets-events/emma/>

A delightfully unconventional and fun adaptation of Jane Austen's classic comedy.

Ever the romantic, Emma Woodhouse prides herself on being the best matchmaker in town. Goaded by her friend George Knightley, she sets out on a quest to set up the adorable ingénue Harriet with a fitting suitor. But love has its own agenda with plenty of twists and turns in store – including a few for Emma herself.

This rendition of Emma is a joyous, irreverent take in conversation with the Regency novel. In a new adaptation that's a bit zany and refreshingly contemporary, playwright Kate Hamill infuses the language and perspectives of today into Austen's beloved characters. You may be surprised by who says what – and how. One thing's for sure, you'll never see Emma the same way again.

"With screwball comedy and surprises aplenty, this fresh, fast-paced [production] interprets the Jane Austen classic with delightfully unconventional flair." –BroadwayWorld

WHERE DID WE SIT ON THE BUS?

 Approximately 1 hour and 20 minutes with no intermission

<https://www.denvercenter.org/tickets-events/where-did-we-sit-on-the-bus/>

Nine-year-old Bee Quijada sits in a suburban classroom. During a history lesson on Rosa Parks, she asks, “Where did Latinos sit on the bus?”

What follows is a theatrical mixtape of Bee’s life. It’s a one-person show that immerses the audience in elaborate, layered soundscapes by fusing Latin rhythms, hip-hop, and spoken word poetry. And it’s all made, in-person, in real time, through the magic of live music and storytelling.

Where Did We Sit on the Bus? captures both the innocence of youth and the pressures that come with being the child of immigrants. It asks, “What is my place? Where do I fit in?” It builds from the ground up, one step at a time, taking audiences on a soulful musical journey as its hero finds hope and meaning through art.
